unlock the memories

Professionally Unknown

Stepping through the broken chains of systematic deprivation
Escaping intoxication, battling drunken subways, and drug infested bus stops for the benefit of education
And confusion to the point where I don't know the questions, to get to the answers.
My mind peers behind my body to see where I have come from, yet the moment I try I become stuck.
No recollection of a past that has been blackened to my knowledge.
My daily day, ordinary gray routine is all that I can recall.

My mind repetitively beaten by quotes of the African Diaspora
"A people without a past is like a tree without roots"

And for that cause I am ready to escape
To travel through the hidden doors of my experiences
My experiences of the past four years have taught me a few things,
One: Anyone who knows something knows nothing
Two: Destiny's is only as great as the man,
And at the end of this journey I realize that key things are missing,
When are the true moments of happiness,
Where is the ending to eternal sadness?
And the boiling burn of brutal darkness stands upon this day.

Yet we arrived.
Not quite armed with the key to life.
Not quite unprepared either, but then who is?

With what we have we will unlock the memories of the past from 2005

Oh can I not forget the tender warmth of laughter that once echoed the hallways,
Standing here, intangible visions of freshmen year take over my body.
Trampled by parades of yearly new faces.
So many places that I have yet to go.
Fearing the forced custody of my own life, when maturity forces me to realize "There ain't nobody else to blame"
Step One: To take defense and accept the consequences of my own actions.
Step Two: To remove fools and any one danger from my path.
Step Three: To submit my soul to the eternal being of power.
Step Four: To return to the truth.(my own)

My mind repetitively beaten by quotes of the African Diaspora
"You don't know where you're going if you don't know where you came from."

Then when these brown eyes become flooded with blue,
Impure by insanity,
And molested by the toxins flooding my society's mentality,
And the final fact still remains that I am stuck.
This key of life is admittedly intangible,
The scandal "Who would do this to mankind?"

Mother's pearls peering down dark dank alley ways
And surviving the subway on a day to day basis
Molested by strange faces
And southern trees alone don't bear strange fruit
'cause city streets alone bear strange eyes
And self education can't be done by one's self,
And Art's education is constantly being shelved,
And trampled visions of visionaries through the vision or the eyes of lies,
Scraping my mind for the questions
To get the answers
To make the progress
To succeed in life,
And in the heat of self suspense the consequence and answer to the question not yet known is "I DON'T KNOW!"

Unlock Avenues Of Expression

Together we experienced many things and could not wait for the upcoming years. We had already begun to emerge together as one. As the years flew by, we began to realize that it was all coming to an end. Over the past four years, not only had we grown as individuals, but we had also grown together as one.

Together, we made it through high school with all of its problems and challenges. Through all that we have accomplished and all that we have achieved, facing the future does not seem as difficult. Despite graduation, we will always remain together in our hearts!

Winter Fair Extravaganza

Every winter at Arts High School the students, staff and members of the community get together and throw an "Annual Bash" to bring in the season. This "annual bash" is known to friends and family as the Winter Fair. Winter Fair gives the students of each major a chance to express themselves in different ways. This year's Winter fair had a large number of participants. Friends and family members of every age were delightfully entertained, and highly impressed with this year's show. The orchestra played well known tunes. The art department added beautiful color and warmth throughout the building with their art work. Art majors sold ceramics, mirror etchings, stained glasses, dry point etching, glasscases, woven handbags and candles all at surprisingly reasonable prices. This years marks the last Winter Fair for the class of 2005, however, the memories will linger in our hearts. To the class of 2006 and beyond, let the Winter Fair live on forever.

About the Author

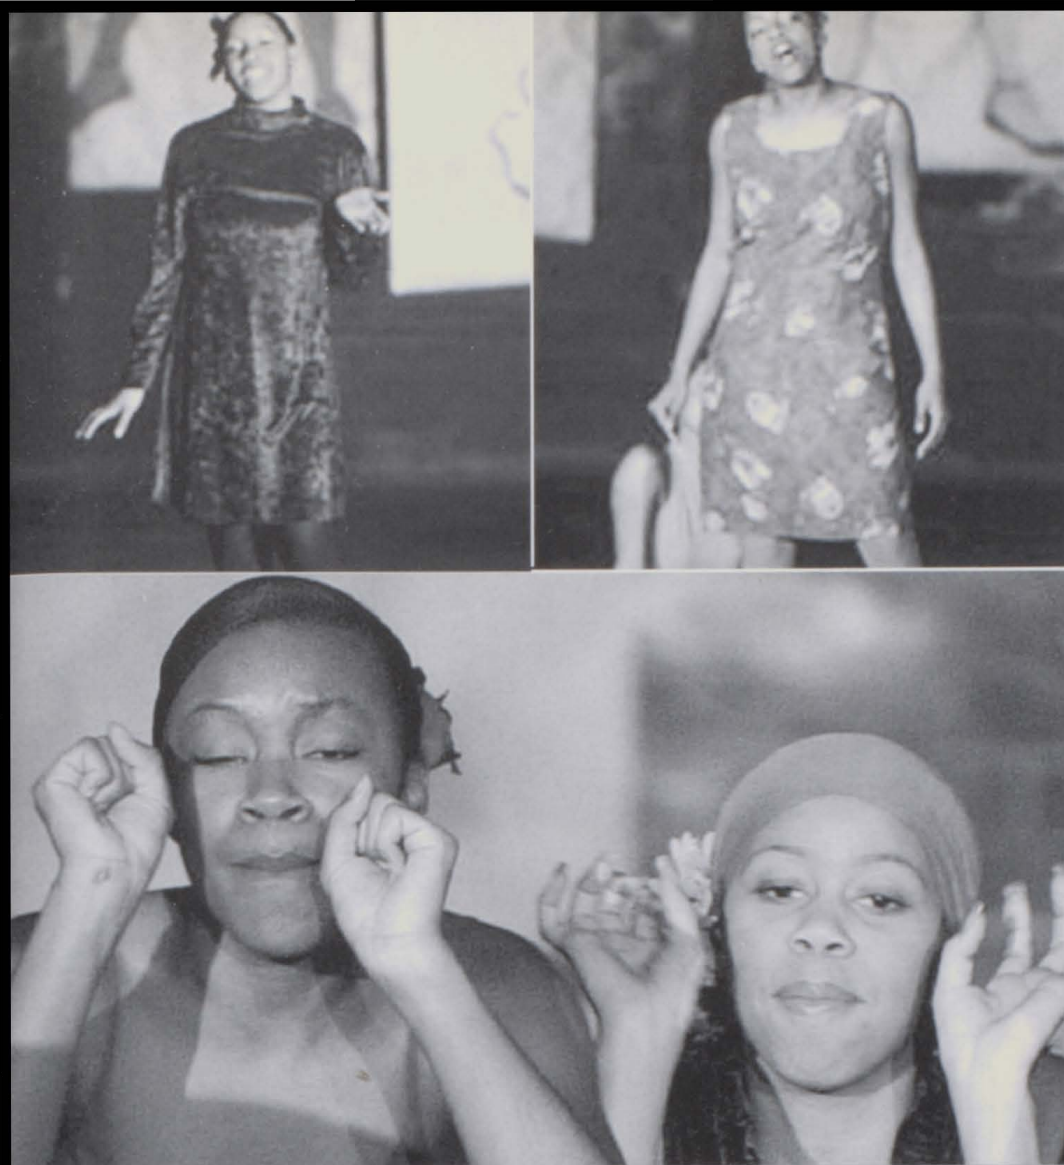

Ntozake Shange is an African-American playwright and poet whose major contribution to the American stage is choreopoem, which uses narrative pieces presented with music and dance. Her best known work, For Colored Girls Who Have Considered Suicide/When the Rainbow is Enuf (1976), is seminal example of this art form. She was born Paulette Williams in Trenton, New Jersey (1948-), and changed her name in recognition of her African heritage. Her Zulu name means "she who comes with her own things" and "she who walks like a lion." A graduate of Barnard College in 1970, she received a master's degree from the University of Southern California (1973), and has taught at several colleges and universities. Shange's other produced plays include A Photograph (1977), Boogie Woogie Landscapes (1979), and Spell #7 (1979). She also wrote the play Betsey Brown (1989), based on her autobiographical novel of the same title about a teenage girl growing up during the 1950s.

Breathtaking

On the 9th and 10th of December 2004. The Drama and Dance Department performed another breathtaking production. This is nothing new to Arts our school has performed countless shows that had left a mark in the lives of those who watch.

For Colored Girls...began in 1975 as a series of poems performed in bars and cafes. after the addition of music and dance, it was eventually performed at the Public Theater in New York City and then moved to Broadway, where it played for two years (1976-1977) and won a Tony award nomination for best play in 1977. Since then it has been performed internationally. In For Colored Girls... a group of women perform poems, often to music, that express issues, abuses, and emotions in women's lives.

chico hamilton

Legendary jazz drummer performs with the Arts High jazz ensemble

On December 15th, Mr. Petty and his jazz ensemble were treated to an impromptu visit by legendary jazz drummer Chico Hamilton. He told the members of the ensemble his interpretation of jazz. He said, in order to exhibit, the players involved must know the rules. Contrary to the way it might sound to the listener there is an almost rigid discipline from which free expressional playing is evolved. Mr. Hamilton went on to say, the form might be elastic and players seemingly off on tangents but this can only result when the performers are completely in control of the situation. Chico Hamilton was the accompanist to such artists as Lena Horne, Garbor Szabo and Gerry Mulligan

Winter extravaganza

Once upon a time an upbeat, yet pleasant group of more than one hundred students gathered together to make one special night.

On February 11, 2005, the atrium resembled a star-studded gala, only this one featured Arts High's Special Family. Many lavishing gowns graced the floor on the figure of all the statuesque young ladies. The boys were truly gentlemen at this Winter Ball, as they featured style of clothing that ranged from trendy suits, to top hats and canes, to the latest club scene fashions. They were asked to "Dress to Impress" and that is exactly what they did with no disappointments.

The atmosphere was set by a romantic color scheme of gold and blue. The dining hall was transformed into a place worthy of such an occasion with blue table covers and edible centerpieces.

The ideal evening wouldn't be the same without great food and great music. There was a spectrum of savory dishes on the menu. The D.J. did a great job of keeping the music happening and varied. He played everything from Club House and Hip Hop to Salsa and Merengue. This event was especially enjoyable for those students who attended.

Eerie Beings

On October 31, 2004, the bizarre occurred at Arts. Roaming the maze of halls were goblins, clowns, vagabonds and even a couple of trollops. Playful pranks were played. Creatures of the night took over the school. Suddenly, just as they appeared, they vanished.

The following school day found no trace of these ghosts and goblins. Rumor has it however, that some of Arts' own students and faculty lent a hand in this bizarre event.

african american heritage day

Every year Arts High School celebrates African American Heritage Day. The students make and create, spring and sing and whirl and twirl as they inform and entertain each other and faculty.

It is a day when they can showcase their talents. Making new inroads in the arts. While doing so they celebrate inroads already made by artisans of African American heritage.

Taking The Time

For some people school life doesn't end at 2:40. It exists for an hour or more after the bell. It maybe the Omega Jazz Esemble, Student Council, Academic Decathlon or Speech Team that strikes a chord in an individual, but one things for sure, Arts High School offers numerous venues for after school activities.

Right: Yes these cello's were once played by the famous students of '05, we will be missed!

Dear Class of 2005,

Grow Strong and thrive!
Search for knowledge, loyalty, and trust, seek out those people who will guide you right - a life filled with love and peace is a must. Arts High will forever be the time in your life when your creativity confirmed that you were free.
Stay forever true to yourself set the example for others to follow, your life will be as strong as a rock and not empty or hollow. God bless you all realize your dreams remember that love never fails, on this truth you can believe. Peace,

Creme De La Creme

Sometimes it's quite difficult being exceptionally bright. There is sometimes a stigma attached to these high achievers, but here at Arts High, they exemplify what the school stands for. All of these top ten scholars excel artistically, musically and academically. Their community benefits from their countless hours of community service. Recitals, clubs and varsity athletics also occupy a good portion of their time. Academics is the main constant among these top ten scholars. All of these students plan to attend prestigious universities. Countless applications and interviews await these gifted students. These students plan to pursue extraordinary majors at their selected universities. Their persistence and perseverance will help these scholars pursue their future endeavors. The title of Creme De La Creme is quite appropriate for these gifted students of the class of 2005. These students are an inspiration for their classmates and future classes.

seniors master their craft

Freshman year was a nurturing year for us. Our teachers put us through many difficult dance, choral, and musical repertoire. During the sophomore year, we refined the skills we learned during the previous year. Performances of the American Ballet Theater and recitals at New Jersey Performing Arts Center were just a routine accordance for us during our junior year.

This dedication and determination will catapult us into stellar careers upon graduation..

Michael B. Jordan, a drama major at Arts High School, was graced with the opportunity to begin a professional acting career relatively early in his life. Beginning with a career modeling, he soon made appearances in television and film.

At thirteen, he caught the studios eye of Dr. Bill Cosby and was cast in the recurring role of 'Michael' for the 1999 season of CBS' sitcom Cosby. Almost simultaneously he appeared in HBO's miniseries The Sopranos. The following year his career took a giant step when he was selected from hundreds of hopefuls to play 'Jamal' in Paramount Pictures feature film Hardball. Later, Michael received critical acclaim for his portrayal of the hard-shelled, softhearted young urbanite "Wallace" in HBO's dramatic hit series The Wire. In 2003, he became the youngest African American actor to be contracted to a network daytime drama series when he was selected to play the role of 'Reggie' on ABC's All My Children.

Away from the set, Michael actively pursues his love for basketball, science, and math. His hard work and diligent practice earned him the position of captain on the Arts High School's Boy's Basketball team. He also received top honors for math in statewide competitions and on downtime can be found catching a number of his favorite shows on Animal Planet. Michael is also currently involved in several charitable organizations, volunteering time to the community.

Above: Michael poses for his professional head shot. This photo has landed him many roles in television and motion pictures.

a blast from the past

Lovebeads, bell bottoms and platform shoes were making a comeback

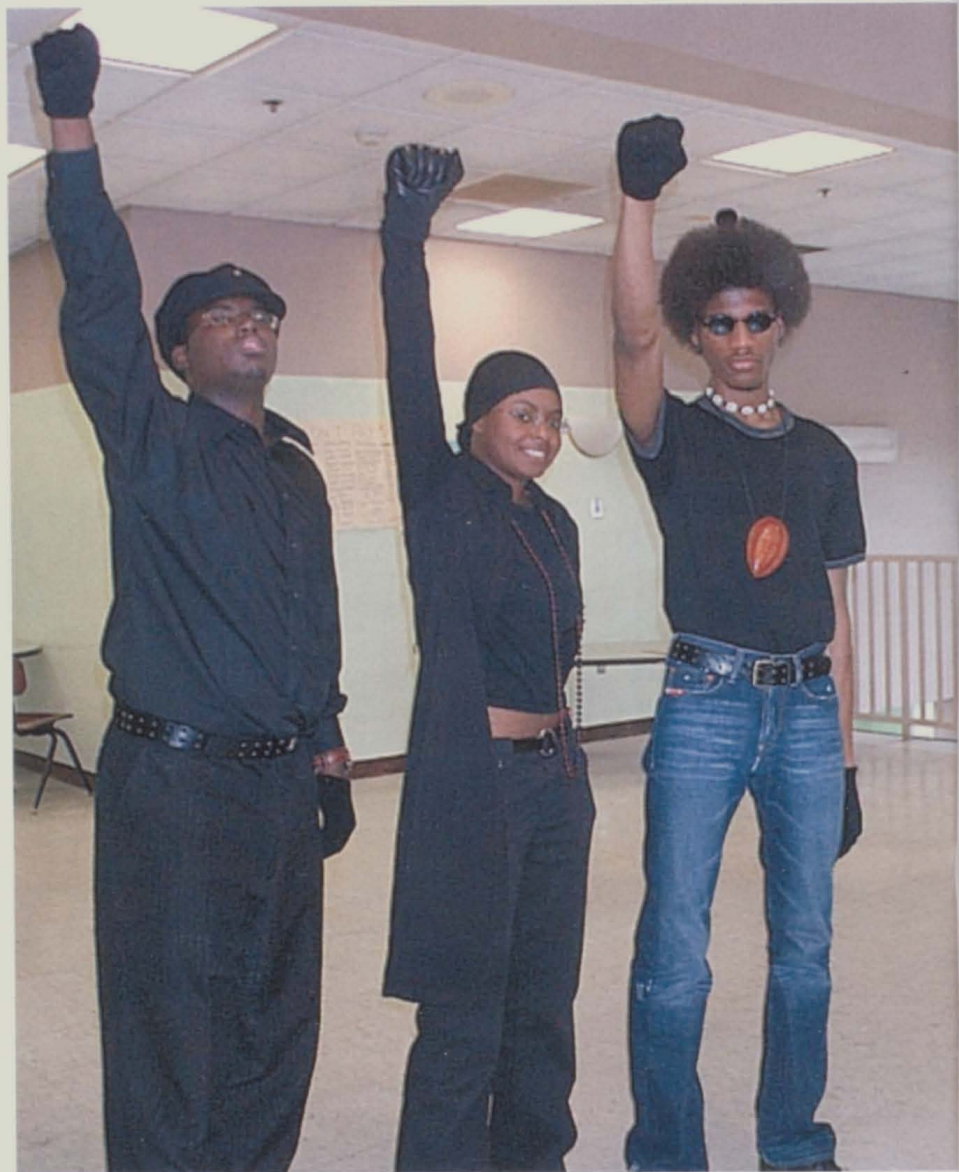

With much research and creativity, the class of 2005 put there best foot forward as they took a step back to the past. Whether they borrowed a couple of things from their dad and mom's old closet or they created nostalgic garments from the 50's, 60's, 70's and 80's. The of class of 2005, really went "Back into the day".

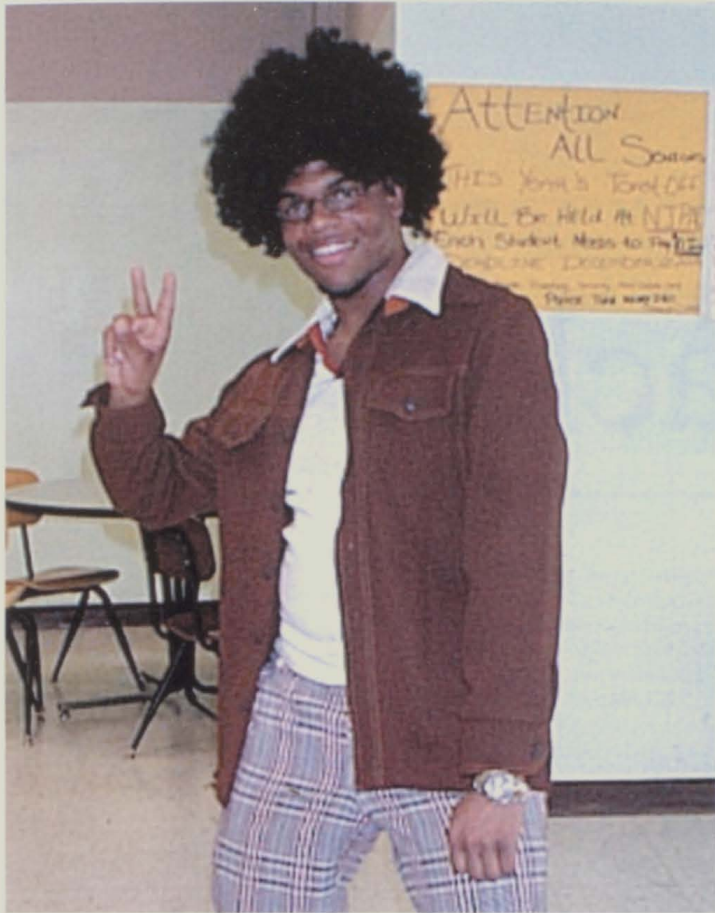

Extraordinary attire from different era's had a great impact on this event. As the senior class strolled down memory lane, lovebeads, bell bottoms and platform shoes made a comeback. The guys were crooning in the corridors while the girls admired them from afar. It was difficult to tell this was 2005.

Above: "Mr. Soopa-Flah" uhm aint he sexy? Ravi took it back to the pimpin' days when bell-bottoms were in and afros were our friend.

Right: Andrew, Elaun-dah, and Aqeel stand proud with a cause bringing us back to the days when black power was a commitment and devotion for the Black Panthers

Left: Wow! Is it me or do you also feel like kickin back and watching an episode of Good Times or What's Happening after seeing this photo. Ko-Ko is killin' it with his 'fro and good times attire.

Below: "Footloose, Footloose, kick off your sunday shoes!" Tajuana and Tamika give us a taste of back in the day when swingin' and stepin' were in.

Left: Peace, Love, and Happiness were all that really mattered to these hip hippies. Tatianna and Celeste show us how to chill and relax while goodness and karma take over.

Throw Backs

Four years ago we entered Arts High School as ninth graders. In many cases we were much different then the upperclassmen. As freshmen, we were though of as being squirrely, immature and naive. But through the Bridge Program, we were able to make a smooth transition from elementary school to high school.

These are some of the classic pictures of the class of 2005. The photos were taken during the summer Bridge Program. The senior class would like to thank Mr. Ronnie Carney for these wonderful images.

Top Left: We see Dave Padilla and Noel Rodriguez posing for America's Next Top Model. Someone should tell them that their underarm hair would give them away.

Top Right: Wow! Are we the only ones confused. Watch out J-Lo competition is on the way when Jose Rubert struts his stuff.

This hilarious senior dress-up day had everyone wondering, who's wearing what?

Seniors Make The Switch

One of the favorite senior activities at Arts High School is "Switch Day". This is day when the most feminine females change into rough, tough roughnecks and the most masculine guys change into "Sexy Fe'mme Fatales". Switch Day has been a tradition at Arts High for many years. It is a chance to play "Dress Up" creatively, using the opposite sex switch as theme. Students can use their "acting" talents as well. A deep-voiced guy just might be heard discussing his(her) lipstick in a high-pitched female voice, while a very lovely young lady may appear as a real strong, tough, "Street Fighter" type with a moustache, beard and a definite "attitude". Everyone participated or helped in making this great day special. There were couples, blondes, the so called twins even some grandmothers. This was a hilarious senior event.

Animation Creations

On November 19 th, the senior class held its annual Cartoon Day. This year's event took on a Japanese flavor. Several of the senior students dressed as their favorite Japanese Anime character. Other students dressed as traditional cartoon characters. Sylvia Trindade was dressed in a macabre fashion. On the other hand, Rachel Berry was dressed in her luscious lime green sweatsuit, with the two M&M twins attached. Joel Wanamaker decided to carry his pet pooch on his shoulder as he attended classes. Tweety Bird was on display, as Aileen Jimenez paraded through the hallways with her pocketbook. Vash and the Japanese school girl made quite impact on the senior participants. Roberto Moreno and Ashley Soto were these characters respectively. Although the participation was not one hundred percent, those seniors who participated enjoyed the day. The class of 2005 would like to thank their advisors Ms. Ranieri and Ms. Fascio for sponsoring this event.

We All Want To Be Celebrities

Celebrity is something that everyone strives for. This became quite evident on March 18th, when the senior class held its annual celebrity day. Hip-hop, reggae, rock and rap resounded from the school's auditorium. The synocopated rhythms were enjoyed by the student body. Celebrity impersonators included the sultry, Ciara, the dynamic group New Edition and the ever popular Janet Jackson. Alicia Keys and Ashanti made a cameo appearance. The show was hosted by Jolanda Deck. Celebrity day was a lot of fun and the performances were generally well received by the student body. The senior class would like to thank Mr. Smith for these images he extracted from video.

Inseparable

It has finally come...Twin Day. A day when members of the senior class dressed identically. This annual event took place on October 15th. A mini-shopping spree was needed to pull this event off. These so called twins were dressed quite stylish. Those seniors who participated, enjoyed the day.

Karma: The Fashion World

On March 4, 2005, Arts High School's dons and divas hit the runway in one of the hottest fashion shows to ever take place. The show, entitled "Karma: The Fashion World," took on a different approach, allowing anything to happen and exceeding all boundaries of a typical high school fashion show. Touching on abstract ideas, the show took the idea s of fashion to a whole different level. Some of the hottest designers in New Jersey, New York, and even Arts High's own, came out to participate in the show. These designers include: Antonio DaSilva Tyrone Chablis, Lawrence Levins, Maplewood Bridal, PBS Unlimited, Andrew Brunner, and Shawn Jernigan. The show was completely student organized and ran entirely by students. Among the fashion aspect of the show, "Karma," allowed fashion to meet talent with some extreamly talented performers. Among them are: Chanae Davis, Avery Pankey, and the dance groups Pulse, and Dimed out Misses all performed. The turnout was terrific and Arts high really set the stage for fashion shows in the future. The committee would like to thank Melissa Thorton, Rebecca Butler, Mr. Gonzalez, Mr. Fairfax, and Mr. Smith for allof the contributions to the development of the show. And great thanks to all the models, we couldn't have done it without you.

Timeless Memories

Now, as we are leaving, we see the final picture; a picture of our class as one. We realize that the mountains we have climbed and bridges we have built could not have been done without a little help from the person next to us. We see that our journey to maturity has been made possible because of our experiences with each other.

Seniors in Arts High School... with hats on for the first time.

On Friday, the 8th of October, 2004. The senior class of Arts High School participated in Hat Day. It was a day full of varieties of colors and styles cascading through the hallways of Arts High. From berets to fitteds. Caps to newspaper hats. "It was something we were never able to do in school," said senior, Gypsy Zelada. While many people have different views about Hat Day, Nicolette Colon said, "Hat Day was fun, because its our last year." Most students participated in Hat Day just because they wanted to be a part of the yearbook while some on the other hand, just thought it was pure fun! It was something unique, and the hats represented our personality. Of course... we would have to do crazy and stupid things because... We are the class of 2005! I hope that the seniors of Arts High School, cherish this memory and other memories to come.

Giddy Up: Seniors Tajuana Allen, Lakiesha Dennis, and Shontay Rose, best friends .

During our time in high school we all searched for true friends. Someone we could connect with, relate to, trust, really get to know. A person to laugh and have fun with, and to cry and go through tough times with; someone to share our life with. Many of us found friends that would last a lifetime while others would just pass through our lives, but each friend we knew left a mark.

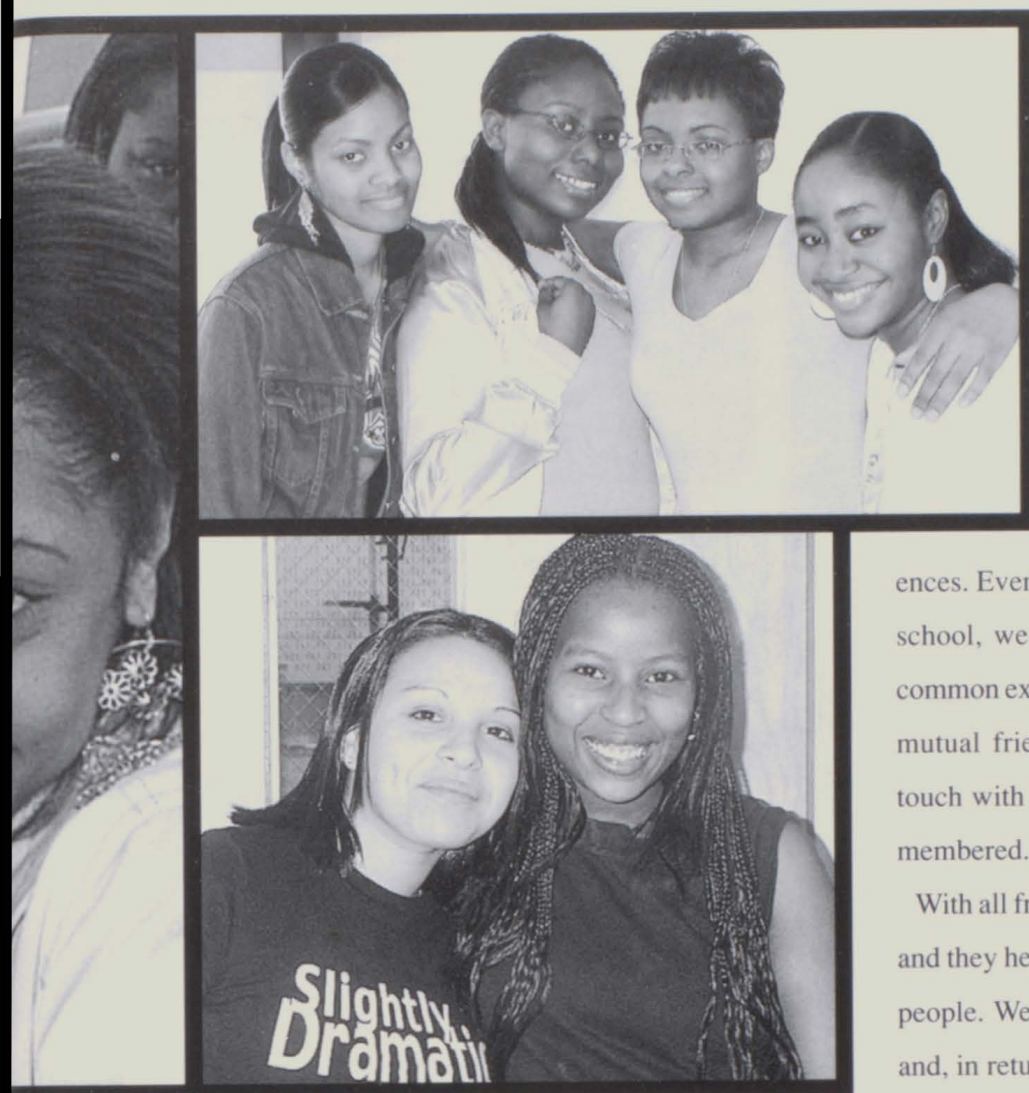

Our true friends struck with us through everything, from comforting us after having our heart broken, to fighting with our parents over our early curfew. They shared with us some of the greatest moments of our lives like getting our first car, turning sweet sixteen and finally graduating. Although it was more difficult to find friends like these, they stayed close to us because we were bound together by time and experiences. Even with the friends we only saw at school, we grew close with them through common experiences of the same classes and mutual friends. Even if we never kept in touch with them, they would always be remembered.

With all friends we learned about ourselves and they helped us discover who we were as people. We gave them a piece of ourselves and, in return, we received a piece of them.

Ending with a record of fourteen wins and seven losses, the Lady Jaguars clawed their way to there first State Tournament appearance in twenty years. This year's team was spearheaded by freshman center Lauren Morris. Lauren averaged ten points a game. She also collected six rebounds a game. Diminutive point guard Treasure Moultrie dished out a record number of assist this season. Forwards, Marvella Nelson and Najala Clark were quite inspirational in two big victories over arch rival Science High School. This year's team was ranked seventh in the county and number four in the Colonial Hills Conference. According to coach Howard, every succesful team has leaders. This is very true in this case as senior Treasure Moultrie was looked upon as the leader. But, in fact, this team had many different people who stepped up when they were called upon. "We all led in our own ways," said freshman Lauren Morris. And because of this shared leadership role, because every one knew their jobs,the Lady Jaguars had a succesful season.

A Bright Future

The Future Looks Bright for Arts High's Boys Basketball Team

This year Basketball season was a building season, but the only two players with more than two years organized basketball experience and them being the only seniors, the future of Arts Basketball looks bright.

With our tallest player being only 6'1", Phil Carpio, a junior, had over three hundred rebounds for the seasons. Our team played with heart and energy. Loosing 9 games by 4 less points. We were ranked at one point number 8 in the state in group 1 schools.

We were able to keep many state power teams such as Bloomfield Tech, Science, Whippany Park, Center, Barringer, to shooting less than 21% from the field so they had to resort to their inside presents which their average height was 6'6" or above.

The future looks very bright with 98% of the team returning and the new recruits, Arts Basketball is on the rise, so keep your heads up, because the program is on the rise.

HIGHLIGHTS

Performing For The New Jersey Nets

Arts High Cheerleaders had the pleasure of performing during halftime of a New Jersey Nets game.

Behind the Scenes

Cartwheels, pyramids, acrobatics and hardwork made this cheerleading season something special.

A change in direction brought excitement and energy to an athletic team.

Where spirit is the Style

This season, Jaguar Pride was alive and well as our cheerleaders were in full force. Our squad incorporated an explosive dance routine to their arsenal of skills, which debuted at the Winter Pep-Rally. During the season, we were front and center representing the very best on the hardwood, with the release of our school mascot. The unique alliance with the pep-squad rocked the building and proved to all that Arts Cheerleaders are the here to stay...stay tuned!

The cheerleaders boost the morale at every game. They work extremely hard to prepare jumps and acrobatics for the student body.

Dancing and smiling on the gymnasium floor, the cheerleaders show their enthusiasm for the next home game.

“Just Bring It”

“Just Bring It”: that was the team’s motto. They were ready for anything and everything. With four returning starters the team was prepared for battle. The team knew they had to play a lot of games in a short period of time. The season started off on a rather grim note with losses to Science, Pingry and Booton. Then, the Jaguars began to turn it around. Winning their next three games, making coach Brogdon quite optimistic. Each member of the played to the best of his ability, and worked hard to improve his game.

Determination

The Lady Jaguar Softball Team has been improving. The varsity squad now has experienced players. This according to Coach Brad Howard. This year's team is faster, stronger and wiser. The Lady Jaguars are spearheaded by the Colon twins, Ana and Maritza. Senior Valerie Viruet also adds punch to the lineup. Sophomore Gabriela Santos provides great defense with her slick fielding. This nucleus makes Coach Howard very optimistic about the season.

You are the daughter that every father would love to have. I'm very blessed to have you in my life.

You have grown to be a very bright, intelligent, strong beautiful woman with a heart of gold.

I know that I was not always in your life, but God has given us the blessing of building a father daughter relationship with each other and for that I'm very grateful. Your mother has truly done a great job raising you and I know that with your mother's wisdom you are going to succeed in life no matter what career path you take.

This is your life and it's just beginning. No matter what trials and tribulations you come across my prayers will always be with you.

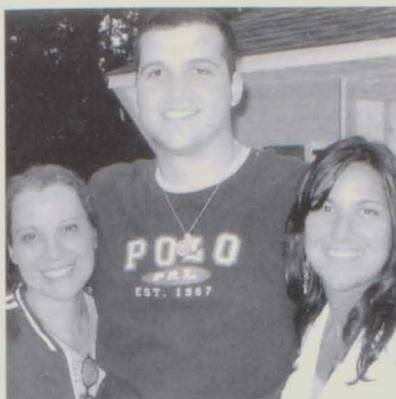

As your father I will always be there. As your friend I will always lend you an ear.

I could never express enough how much love I have for you. Congratulations on achieving such a great milestone it's been a tough four years.

I am truly proud of you.

I Love you

Your Father
